

ABSTRACT

A printing device and replaceable printing device component is described.

The replaceable printing device component stores a firmware patch for the printing device component. When the replaceable printing device component is 5 coupled to the printing device, the printing device may read the firmware patch stored on the replaceable printing device component, and write the patch into the printing device firmware.